Subject: Microsoft is an essential part of the recovering IT industry

To whom it may concern

I am a computer programmer and I feel that a whole and strong Microsoft , as an industry leader, is an essential part of the recovering IT industry.

Some of Microsoft's tactics may be less than honorable but that is business , the software and standards they produce are essential to millions of people's business and social lives.

I appeal to you to, please not allow any group or individual , to threaten the evolution of the IT industry and the progress that Microsoft is making in all aspects of there newly innovated standards and software.

Any breakup of Microsoft would put the industry back, at least 10 years and who knows how long it would take to recover,affecting the work and recreation of millions.

I trust you will take these facts into account, when making your judgment.

Yours truly
